To whom it may concern,

Fe Garcia has worked for our family for 9 months and due to our relocation back to the UK she is looking for a new employer.

Fe is an extremely skilled professional, having worked for nearly 20 years as a domestic helper and is a mother herself. She is diligent, hard-working, kind, has amazing attention to detail, enjoys cooking and is fantastic with children.

In our family she looks after the apartment, groceries, cooking and taking care of our 6-month-old. We trust her 100% with our baby girl, she loves and cares for her like her own, and she is able to do that while keeping on top of her other responsibilities. You never have to ask her to do something more than once, she takes initiative and is reliable.

She would be a true asset to any family, we are extremely sad to be saying goodbye to her and want to see her happy with her next employer.

Best,
Lucinda Milne
