To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to recommend Ms. Olindan, Geraldine De Vera, who has been employed in my household as a domestic helper from 10 September 2025 to 9 February 2026.

During her employment, Geraldine was primarily responsible for housekeeping, elder care, and cooking. She carried out these duties with diligence and professionalism, consistently maintaining a clean and orderly home environment while providing attentive and compassionate care to my husband, who was suffering from cancer.

Geraldine has demonstrated exceptional qualities throughout her service. She is hardworking, reliable, hygienic, and willing to take on additional responsibilities when needed. Her ability to communicate fluently in English, combined with her good medical knowledge, made her particularly effective in supporting my husband's care. She not only provided professional assistance but also brought joy and comfort to him, showing great patience, empathy, and understanding during a very difficult time.

Due to the passing of my husband, Geraldine is now seeking a new employer. I am confident that she will be a valuable addition to any household, and I wholeheartedly recommend her for future employment.

I would also be happy to speak directly with anyone interested in hiring Geraldine. I can be reached by email at 1.
